THE MODERN LIBRARY

THE publishers of the Modern Library have been striving to meet the growing demand for good literature, well printed and attractively bound, at a price within reason. The result of their efforts, after eight years, is a series of 120 books—the finest works of the world's greatest modern writers,—in authorized and unabridged editions, designed to sell at the astonishing price of ninety-five cents a copy.

Modern Library books are hand bound, fully limp, and designed to fit the pocket. They are printed from clear, new type, on good paper, the tops stained, and the decorations genuine gold. They bring for the first time within reach of thousands and thousands of people, who either could not or would not pay more than a dollar for a book, representative works of Dreiser, Cabell, Anderson, France, Nietzsche, Shaw, O'Neill, Butler, Hudson, Schopenhauer, Lawrence, Wilde, and scores of others.

Listed on this page is a selection of Modern Library titles that should appeal particularly to readers of the New Masses. These books, and all the remaining ones in the series, are described in detail in
